A chocolate lover's Mani-Pedi bridal shower treat

The Soak - To create this, add some bubbling chocolate powder soak into a plastic wine glass, top with some coarse Dead Sea salts , and add a sprinkle of cocoa powder.

The Scrub – Add some chocolate sugar scrub into the white serving bowl and sprinkle with cocoa powder on top.

The Mask – Consists of white clay on the bottom and chocolate mask on top of that. Creating this is simple. The clay and chocolate mask come in a powder form, just add some water a little at a time to the white clay in a bowl and mix until you get a mousse like consistency. In general, mix 1 and 1/2 teaspoons full of clay with 1 teaspoonful of water. You can play around with this until you come up with the consistency you want. Put the resulting mixture in the serving bowl. Do the same with the chocolate mask, in a separate bowl and add the resulting mixture on top of the white clay mixture in the serving bowl, then sprinkle with some white clay powder on the chocolate mixture to top it off.

The lotion – Put some chocolate lotion onto the serving tray and sprinkle some cocoa powder on top.

The Oil - Add 1 cup olive oil into a measuring cup and then add 1/2 teaspoonful of cocoa powder. You may add more if you want a really dark oil. Mix well.

To rim the glass, mix some chocolate mask with some water in a bowl wide enough to fit the top of the plastic wine glass. Then dip the top of the wine glass in the clay mixture as deep as you want the clay rim to be, then take it out and leave to dry for about 10 minutes. Once dry, put the chocolate oil into the rimmed plastic wine glass.
